Tips for Seniors

Keep these things in mind when you're preparing for your portrait sessions:

- It's OK – recommended, even – to bring sports clothing, your varsity jacket, instruments, or other props.
- Don't wear really crazy patterns, stripes, or other distracting clothing.
- Don't go tanning, change your hair color, or get a haircut with a week or so before your session.
- Girls: avoid wearing really low cut shirts and exposed bra straps.
- Get plenty of sleep the night before your shoot.
- If you have powder in a color that matches your skin, please bring it.
- If you're not sure about something, please ask me before the session!

The Process

Here is how the process of taking photos, selection, proofing, and printing happens:

- We shoot photos in however many sessions you'd like.
- The photographer does some very basic editing and retouching on the photos.
- The photos are uploaded to a gallery accessible on the Internet.
- You pick photos that you definitely want eliminated from consideration.
  - Important: During these selections, you are judging photos based only on pose and expression, not on exposure, brightness, the colors, contrast, or the crop. All the brightness/color/etc. issues are corrected during the retouching process; these are always a little bit “off” in proofs. Photos are cropped later taking into consideration the pose, the photo's composition, and the desired print size.
- The photographer will eliminate those photos from the gallery.
- You will then select about 15 images from each gallery for a proof book. The photographer will do some additional retouching on these photos for the proof book (to fix any issues with color, light, etc. that we were ignoring during the selection process).
- Once the proof book arrives (within a few days), you may order prints of the photos in the book. If you later decide you want prints of a photo that did not appear in the proof book, contact the photographer to make arrangements.
- The photographer completes retouching off the images you've selected and prints are made.
